Walks Calmly Into Hospital For Treatment

BARTONSVILLE—An 18-year-old Barrett Township youth walked unaided into General Hospital early yesterday morning after his left forearm was torn from its socket in a collision here on Route 611.

Larry L. Batzel of Canadensis, lost his arm when it was ripped off by a tractor-trailer, driven by Andrew Space, Jr., 34, of Clarks Summit, and owned by the Metropolitan Auto Convoy Corp., State Police disclosed.

President 'Irritated' At Congress

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower was represented today as "irritated" at the Democratic-controlled Congress and determined to make an issue in the fall campaign of its handling of his legislative program.

Republican congressional leaders reported that at a Gettysburg, Pa., conference, in confirming he will run again, the President said he will campaign "very vigorously" for his foreign aid program. Congress now is in the process of scaling down that program substantially.

They said Eisenhower also raised the issue of civil rights legislation—extremely touchy to many Southern Democrats—with the observation that he had asked very little on this score and expected Congress to give him what he requested.

Delay

Southern Democrats have engaged in delaying tactics against Eisenhower's proposal to set up a bipartisan civil rights commission, to create a civil rights division in the Justice Department and make it easier for cases of this nature to be taken to federal courts. If the measure passes the House, it may provoke a Dixie filibuster in the Senate.

Eisenhower's attitude suggested to some Republicans he may be in a mood to make the Democratic Congress a campaign issue, much as President Truman did in 1948 when he belittled the GOP-controlled Congress of that period.

If Eisenhower takes this step he may expect return fire from Democrats who recall that they have helped him many times on legislation, sometimes mustering more votes for him than did the Republicans.

It was pointed out that Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, supported the administration strongly on the foreign aid bill.

Lords Reject Hanging Bill

LONDON, July 10 (AP)—The House of Lords tonight rejected a bill to abolish hanging in Britain in the face of threats that the House may be stripped of any political power.

By an overwhelming 238-95, the peers threw back to the House of Commons the most controversial piece of legislation to worry this nation in many years. But the bill could become law if the House of Commons adopted it again.

Greece Proudly Declines Offers

ATHENS, Greece, July 10 (AP)—Greece proudly declined aid offers from the United States and Britain today as her quake-stricken Aegean Islands dug out from the ruins of yesterday's disaster.

Premier Konstantinos Karamanlis said tonight the death toll was "50, and maybe higher."

Mediators Confer With Steel Union

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Federal mediators conferred for more than an hour tonight with top officials of the striking United Steelworkers. Chief mediator Joseph F. Finnegan said nothing happened to change his view "of the gravity of the situation."

Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, nevertheless expressed confidence that both the union and management are ready to cooperate in new bargaining efforts to end the 10-day-old strike that has idled some 730,000 workers.

Today's meeting was a step toward resumption of joint union-management negotiations, which Finnegan said would get under way Thursday in Pittsburgh.

Northampton Applies For Surplus Food

HARRISBURG, July 10 (AP)—The Commonwealth today listed applications for increased federal surplus food due to the steel strike.

They are Mercer, Northampton, Bucks, Westmoreland, Lebanon, Philadelphia and Cambria counties applying to some 151,228 persons.

"Surplus food is available to needy persons in the state, including those on strike," said John S. Rice, secretary of property and supplies, whose department administers the federal program.

Paul Worcester, surplus food division director, said that Allegheny County is "toying with the idea" of applying for surplus food. In addition, the Steelton local of the United Steelworkers is planning to confer with Dauphin County commissioners on the matter.

Ike Gives Assignment To Congress

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower today handed Congress a big assignment—action on more than a dozen "priority" bills before adjournment. Topping the list are foreign aid funds, school construction and civil rights.

Eisenhower pressed his legislative program in personal appeals to both Republican and Democratic leaders. But with Congress aiming for adjournment later this month, it was obvious he could not expect favorable action on all his requests, many of them highly controversial.

Hope

"A solution will be worked out only by bargaining between union and management representatives. It will not be imposed by the government."

Also attending the session were Clyde Mills, assistant director of the mediation service, and Arthur G. Goldberg, union counsel.

Finnegan said the separate talks are aimed at getting a "better understanding" of the issues in the nationwide strike.

Meeting

Knowland and other Republican congressional leaders met with Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa., to discuss the President's plans for the final weeks of the session.

After this meeting, Eisenhower telephoned Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas and House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) to make his wishes known.

Knowland

Knowland said in Gettysburg that Eisenhower had tagged 15 proposals for "priority" action.

Topping the list was the foreign aid money bill which the House will vote on tomorrow. Knowland said Eisenhower is hopeful the funds voted will be in "substantial" accord with the four billion dollar authorization which Congress passed yesterday.

House GOP Leaders

House GOP leaders have said they will leave it to the Senate to initiate any move to add funds to the bill, which now totals $3,600,000—some $1,400,000,000 less than Eisenhower originally requested.

Another proposal which Bridges said Eisenhower plugged for was which is scheduled for House action but which would almost certainly be talked to death by Southern Democrats in the Senate.

Truman Likes Keynote Pick

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman, obviously enjoying the role of Democratic elder statesman, received $72,000 for his library today, and just about all the political attention he could absorb.

Told that President Eisenhower had reaffirmed that he is willing to be the Republican nominee for a second term, Truman grinned at newsmen and said "That's not headline news to me."

Happy

He said he was pleased with selection of Gov. Frank Clement, 36-year-old Tennesseean, as keynote of the Aug. 13 Democratic convention.

"You couldn't have a better keynoter than Clement," he told a news conference, dismissing a suggestion that the Clement choice represented a victory for supporters of Adlai Stevenson.

Crank Calls Continue In Kidnap Case

WESTBURY, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—A new rash of crank telephone calls today deepened the agony of kidnaped Peter Weinberger's parents.

Seventeen telephone calls were received at the Weinberger home in a matter of hours. All were from cranks. All were anonymous. They came from as far away as Chicago and Pontiac, Mich.

As far as police were concerned, the search apparently was at a dead end. The best they could do was plead with the kidnaper to give up the 5-week-old baby.

The FBI is expected to throw its full force of crack manhunters into the case tomorrow, one week after the baby boy was snatched from a carriage on the patio of his home.

Restrictions

G-Men can move into a kidnap case after seven days or after the victim has been taken across state lines.

The kidnaper left a note on the Weinberger patio demanding $2,000. Last Friday, a telephone caller upped the ransom demand to $5,000. At the time, the child's father, Morris, a wholesale drug salesman, accepted the caller as the kidnaper.

But the intrusion into the case of hoax telephone callers has cast some doubt on the sincerity of the Friday call.

Two men accused of such a hoax call were taken into Queens County Court on charges of attempted extortion and giving false information to police.

The pair, Robert F. Giebler, 27, a longshoreman, and Gordon T. Rowell, 24, a railroad clerk, are accused of luring Mrs. Weinberger out on a false chase Sunday night and early Monday. They allegedly told her they had little Peter and were ready to trade him for the $5,000 ransom. The two charges upon which the men were booked carry maximum penalties together of 30 years.

Judge James E. Lo Piccolo was so moved by the cruelty imputed to the pair by the charges that he refused to handle the case. Holding their case for arraignment next Monday before another judge.

Reds Hurl Plane Charge At U.S.

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Russia charged today that American military planes flew deep into western Russia three times within the past week in a "gross violation of Soviet air space."

Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin, acting on instructions from Moscow, lodged the protest in a formal note handed to Secretary of State Dulles.

Zarubin, sternly denounced the alleged overflights as "an invasion of our air" and said some of the flights penetrated up to 320 kilometers, or about 200 miles, inside Russia.

Story

"Some of these planes remained there 2 1/2 hours," he told reporters.

The State Department promptly reported it knows "absolutely nothing about this" but promised to check with "appropriate authorities" in the Defense Department. There was no immediate comment from the latter department.

Top officials appeared genuinely puzzled over the alleged incidents which Zarubin claimed occurred July 4, 5, and again yesterday.

Un-American Group Opens Fund Inquiry

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities today began an inquiry into a Fund for the Republic "report on blacklisting" which Chairman Walter (D-Pa.) said makes "very serious charges" against active anti-Communists.

Called to explain the two-volume publication at a public hearing was John Cogley, its editor and the former editor of the Catholic lay magazine "Commonweal."

Elaborating on the material in his report, Cogley named a number of persons he said were able to "clear" entertainers informally blacklisted by the movie and radio-TV industries for alleged Communist associations.

The additional facility here will enable the company to better serve its customers in Pennsylvania, Stanford H. Shaw said yesterday. He said all new and modern equipment will be installed in the 14,400 feet of floor space available in the First St. building.

Negotiations

Negotiations for bringing the Shaw company to Stroudsburg were carried on by the Area Development Department of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. and the Industrial Committee of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce headed by Paul E. McBride.

The Shaw management has been dealing with custom molding 64 years and its leadership is responsible for a number of "firsts" in the advance of the science and technique of plastic moldings, he said.

Answer

"I heard rumors that clearances were sold," Cogley testified under questioning, "but I found no evidence."

In his report, Cogley said "clearance men" were "often the same" individuals who initiated charges that led to blacklisting of entertainers.

Walter, in a statement opening the hearing, said Cogley's report "makes very serious charges against organizations and individuals who have been active in combating the Communist threat in the entertainment industry."

He said the committee wanted to look into accusations that they "created—by diverse motives—a vast machinery of blacklisting which destroys the innocent as well as penalizing the guilty."

Walter also described the hearing as part of a broader inquiry to determine "whether the Fund for the Republic stands as friend or foe in America's struggle against communism."

Cogley said "I would resent heartily the implication that I was defending anyone or communism in general."

To demands by committee counsel Richard Arens to name the "chief clearance men," Cogley cited a letter from Atty. Martin Gang to Daniel T. O'Shea of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Cogley said the letter argued the case of William N. (Bill) Robeson, an actor, and referred to alleged clearance to him by Vincent Hartnett, Larry Johnson, Syracuse, N. Y., Roy Brewer and George Sokolsky, syndicated newspaper columnist.

Asked if Sokolsky was a "clearance man," Cogley replied: "I would say so, sir."

McKean County Representative Takes Stand Against Construction Of Keystone Shortway

BRADFORD, July 10 (AP)—Rep. Johnson of Smithport today urged the northern tier counties to "raise up in arms" against the proposed scuttling of improvements to Route 6.

The McKean County Republican said "I resent the reference by Secretary of Highways Lawler that Route 6 is nothing more than a scenic route."

Lawler made the reference in a letter to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads proposing that a Sharon-to-Stroudsburg route be substituted for Route 6.

"He (Lawler) wholly ignores that it (Route 6) transverse a vital part of Pennsylvania," said Johnson, "which for lack of railroad facilities is entirely dependent on Route 6 for transportation and subsistence."

The proposed Sharon-Stroudsburg route is known as the Keystone Shortway. It is described by its backers as the shortest route between New York and Chicago through Pennsylvania.

Added Johnson: "The proposed new Route 6 would unnecessarily compete with our present Pennsylvania Turnpike as it would come out at the Ohio line about 10 miles from our turnpike entrance. It would be very costly to build, and would go through very rugged mountainous sections of Pennsylvania."

Dwight Eisenhower ... Set For Battle

Ike Reports Current Health 'Much Better'

GETTYSBURG, July 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower will run again. He passed the word today through GOP congressional leaders, who quoted him as saying he is in "much better" health than before his major abdominal surgery.

Republicans expressed jubilation, and predicted a big victory for their party in November. Democrats, preparing battle plans for an attempt to unseat Eisenhower, said they were glad he feels well enough to be a candidate again.

While the news was not a surprise, it came in an unexpected manner out of the chief executive's temporary office on the campus of Gettysburg College. It came through Senate Republican Leader Knowland, who said after a meeting between Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders:

"The President reiterated the fact that he will be a candidate for re-election in 1960."

Statement

Knowland made this statement before newsreel cameras after saying substantially the same thing to a news conference in the austere furnished office which Eisenhower has taken over for a week or so from the incoming president of the college, Gen. Willard S. Paul.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty stood in the room, nodding, as Knowland—who, perhaps ironically, aspires to the presidency himself—passed along the word to newsmen after Eisenhower's 67-minute meeting with the House and Senate GOP leaders.

On his return to Washington, Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, one of the conferees, said he didn't know whether the disclosure of the President's intentions was pre-arranged or "just popped out."

Bridges and Knowland said that Eisenhower discussed various legislative items with the leaders, and when he came to foreign aid, he remarked:

"I feel very deeply about this and I intend to campaign very vigorously and hard on this issue before the country this fall."

With a broad grin, Knowland broke in to tell Eisenhower: "Mr. President, that's a lot better way to get the news than through Hagerty's smile."

A broad smile worn by Hagerty after talking politics with the President last week was generally regarded as a tipoff of the President's intentions.

Bridges told newsmen that in response to Knowland's comment, the President said:

"Why shouldn't I run? Last Feb. 29 I surveyed all of the reasons pro and con when I announced my decision. I'm in much better condition today than I was then."

"I have had a condition that has bothered me from time to time for years, and my doctors say that I am better now than I have been before."

Eisenhower appeared twice in public view—before and after the conference. He looked a good deal ruddier than when he left Walter Reed Army Hospital a week ago last Saturday, though he still hasn't regained all of his usual color. He still is a bit thin, too—his weight dropped to 163 pounds from the preoperation 169, but he has started to gain again.

Tags will be on sale each of the two days from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Co-chairmen of the sale are Delbert Davis and Beverly Long with Lewis Hastie acting as general supervisor.

Salesmen

Salesmen for the event will be children and young adults from the East Stroudsburg pool and playground. Sales will be made on a donation basis; no set price is asked.

The sale will be conducted primarily in East Stroudsburg. Members of the playground staff last night urged all borough residents to support the two-day fund-raising drive.

Reports To Be Made

HARRISBURG, July 10 (P)—The legislative committee investigating the financial woes of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission may have its recommendations ready by the end of this week.

Tomorrow the five-man Senate committee meets to draft its preliminary report to be submitted to Gov. Leader and the chairman of the Turnpike commission.

Possibility

"We may even have the point recommendations ready before the end of the week," predicted Sen. John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland), committee vice chairman.

"It'll be ready in a matter of days and getting it out only depends on how much further work there is. I think we will complete the rough draft tomorrow."

Pocono Playhouse

Cast, Direction, Staging
Tops In 'Anniversary Waltz'

By Leonard Randolph

MOUNTAINHOME—To celebrate the 10th anniversary of her Pocono Playhouse Rowena Stevens is presenting the Jerome Chodorov-Joseph Fields comedy "Anniversary Waltz."

As a play "Waltz" is no more than half as good as the acting, direction and production it has been given at the Playhouse. Yet, because of the superhuman effort expended by the persons responsible for these facets of the show, it is enjoyable, funny, often charming entertainment.

John O'Shaughnessy's direction accents the script's occasionally funny lines. His staging goes far beyond that, however, in creating humor out of fragmentary material. When O'Shaughnessy gets his actors on-stage and runs them through a whole range of comic "business," Chodorov and Fields fly out the window and the evening begins to take on aspects of genuine good humor.

The general point of departure in "Waltz" is the 15th wedding anniversary of Alice and "Bud" Walters. During the course of celebration "Bud" lets slip the fact that he and Alice had lived together a year before they were married. It is with this pre-marital thread that the authors have attempted to sew up their comedy of errors. They've made it patchwork instead of fabric.

Besides O'Shaughnessy—the indispensable man in this case—the current production has the customary advantage of a beautifully atmospheric and resourceful set by Ballou. It has fine lighting by Cameron MacCardell. And the furnishings of the apartment were precisely right. Included in the decor were some fine paintings by Sterling Strauser.

Praise

I think some sort of prize ought to go to members of the cast for their inventive and good-natured approach to the play. The spirit of the entertainment lies in their own projected charm.

Phyllis Hill, for example, I thought, was a delightful Alice. Poised, attractive and sweet with no trace of saccharin. Miss Hill made the wife durable and convincing. Hugh Reilly was fine as "Bud" despite an infrequent stumble.

Both Jimmie Christie and Lee Graham turned in credible and comic performances as the Walters children, progressive-minded and meddlesome in the script, but still funny enough to carry their meager scenes as Christie and Miss Graham play them. Frances Foster's idea of a maid was perfect. So, in their own characterizations, were Donald Hylan and Olive Templeton as the in-laws. Edward Hunt and Cynthia Carlin create two good characterizations out of none-too-comic writing as Chris and Janice. Special applause ought to be reserved for Frederic Walters who turns a bit part as a television deliveryman into a swift, sure caricature; Herbert Voss as his monosyllabic assistant and Frank Langella Jr., a "handyman."

I have nothing but admiration for the actors, director, scenic design and backstage production which has gone into "Anniversary Waltz." So far as Chodorov and Fields are concerned, they ought to be grateful someone put a heated creative-spark in their "comedy." They never had it so good.

In 1856 there were 12½ acres of U. S. farm land per capita compared with 5 acres today.

Total attendance in the pool during the month was announced as 3,587, which figure included both children and adults.

Wilson said the day camp is operating for three periods of two weeks each with a full enrollment of boys. The YMCA also sponsors a "Summer Fun Club" for the girls, he said.

The secretary said there has been a fine attendance of teen-agers at the YMCA-sponsored dances Saturday nights. Mrs. James T. Kitson, president of the YMCA Auxiliary, is senior adviser of the dance program.

The meeting adjourned with a moment of silent prayer in respect to the late Mr. Houser. The next meeting will be held Sept. 11.

Today's schedule: Buck Hill Falls area, the Inn from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; Mountainhome, YMCA, 2 to 4 p. m., and Tannersville, Fire House, 7 to 9 p. m.

Tomorrow, the mobile unit will x-ray food handlers in the Pocono Manor section at the Inn from 10 to 11:30 a. m.; at Pocono Crest for the Pocono Pines area from 1:30 to 3 p. m. and at Mt. Airy Lodge, Mount Pocono, from 4 to 5 p. m.

The campaign closes Friday with the unit stopping in front of Wyckoff's Department Store, Stroudsburg.

Motorist Hits
Parked Car

PARRYVILLE—A Bethlehem motorist ran into the back of a car parked in the road at the intersection here on Route 29 Monday at 4:20 p. m.

George Lees, of 514 Broadway, was traveling South on the road and did not stop in time to miss a car driven by Jay Petruska, of Boundbrook, N. J., which was waiting at the signal there, Leighton State Police said.

Red Cross Outlines Steps To Take In Event Tropical Storm Strikes

A warning that the entire Eastern Seaboard had become a "hurricane alley" through what appears to be a change in weather patterns has come from the American Red Cross.

Communities hundreds of miles inland also are advised to take heed as the season approaches for tropical storms and the possibility of floods.

The warning is not intended to alarm people unnecessarily. It is offered well in advance of the hurricane season so every person living in the East can familiarize himself with the steps to be taken in such an emergency.

The Red Cross suggested these preparedness measures:

1. Watch your newspapers and keep the radio on for official weather bureau reports.
2. Store garden furniture, tools, awnings and other loose objects in a safe place. Otherwise, they may become lethal weapons in a storm.

3. Board up windows and put storm shutters in place.
4. If you are told to evacuate a building, don't delay! Just get out and follow instructions — a minute may save a life.
5. Don't run the risk of being marooned. Get away and stay away from low-lying beaches or other places likely to be swept by ocean winds or high tides.
6. Don't go outside during a storm. Stay indoors, preferably in a brick or concrete building.
7. Stay away from windows.
8. If the center or "eye" of the storm passes directly overhead there will be a deceptive lull, lasting for as long as 30 minutes. Stay where you are during this calm period. The wind will return from the opposite direction — with perhaps greater force.
9. Fill bathtubs, bottles and cooking utensils with water. Keep extra food (which does not require cooking) handy. Be sure to have flashlight or candles to use in the event of power failure.
10. Don't touch fallen wires. Report such damage to police or power companies.

Few Presidential Aspirants Immune From Some Type Of Physical Ailment

Come August and the Chicago convention, politicians and pundits turned medical experts will have something to talk about besides illeits.

If Adlai Stevenson is the Democratic nominee, the curbstone diagnosticians will discourse learnedly on the recurrence incidence after kidney operations.

If it's Averell Harriman, there'll be a spate of treatises on prostatic operations, with magnificent differences of opinion.

If Stuart Symington, look for profound analyses on how a man once under a doctor's care for hypertension might react to White House pressures.

And Lyndon Johnson of course would bring another go-around on cardiac troubles.

Only Estes Kefauver and Ohio's Governor Lausche among Democratic hopefuls have escaped the spotlight on their innards. Indeed, their only deficiency seems to be in a head-count of convention delegates—which could be a greater affliction, politically speaking, than anything mentioned above.

Are our presidential aspirants as a rule ailing prematurely these days? Should it be so disturbing that they seem to lack stevedore health and heartiness?

Before the days of keyhole reporting, television prognoses and doctors' press conferences, we had a President—Grover Cleveland—who was operated on for cancer. The public never knew about it, and he served his term out.

And we remember reading George Washington would have been classified a hopeless 4-F had he been examined by a modern draft board doctor. Yet George took the field and led his army to victory in our war of independence. And served eight years as President without a natural tooth in his head.

Maybe the answer is George Washington had something else in his head.

It still should count in choosing an occupant for the White House.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Increasing Number Believe No Nation Will Ever Dare Use Atom, Hydrogen Bombs

The years pass quickly and what excited men a few years ago seems of so little importance today. This always happens, particularly among those who want to make the world over so rapidly that they will see the greatest possible changes before they die.

Sometimes a terrific and even a terrifying revolution does take place, but generally the more we try to change things, the more they are about the same.

I recently read a book entitled "Education for Democracy in Our Time," by Professor Jesse H. Newlon of Teachers College, Columbia University, published in 1939 and marked "first edition." I have not inquired whether there have been any subsequent editions, but it is clear from the text that in 1939, Professor Newlon expected our country to change more rapidly than it has and the trouble is that in the intervening period we went to war with Japan and Germany; then we had the Korean War and the cold war with Soviet Russia and an inflation of our economy and now we are bogged down in the Eisenhower prosperity and what most Americans want to change most are the models of their cars and their television sets and refrigerators. Some, according to the marriage and divorce statistics, also are busy changing their wives.

This is what Professor Newlon wrote in 1939:

"It would be misleading to suggest that the issues are always clear, that the individual is always conscious of whether he is working for the common good or against it, or that the actual purposes and tendencies of the various organized groups or of the various social classes or interests are always clear to the individuals that compose them. But the array of forces for and against the democratic ideal is, nevertheless, perfectly clear. Arranged against democracy today are all those forces striving to maintain the economic status quo . . ."

But the economic status quo is never desired by reactionaries. They want to become bigger and richer all the time. They also change their products and the machinery they use. For instance, since Professor Newlon wrote this book, at least four new industries have been developed in the United States to proportions heretofore hardly believable: they are synthetics, electronics, pharmaceuticals and the atomics. Also airplanes and automobiles have gone beyond anything anticipated. Only atomics started as a specialized industry, its capital being provided by the government out of taxes; all others have been developed capitalistically with some aid from defense orders.

Professor Newlon said: "It is essentially a relatively small group in our society that owns or controls most of the productive, industrial, and business wealth of the country, that opposes needed economic changes. The middle class is confused and divided in its sympathies, but the status quo is defended by many members of this class who still have faith in their own future under the existing economy and each of whom hopes some day to become a capitalist. The defenders of democracy are, on the other hand, largely drawn from this same middle class and from the ranks of wage earners."

The distinction which the learned professor makes between those who believe in and practice capitalism and those who practice capitalism but believe in democracy seems at this date not only untenable but a play on words. The professor does not mean political democracy which in the United States we accept as being of the nature of a representative republic as defined in the Constitution. What the professor apparently refers to is industrial democracy, a fancy term generally adopted by Fabian Socialists.

If an American sees the word, socialism, it is a red flag to him and he is liable to discount the writer's ideas which is not the best way to approach any problem. Nevertheless the term, industrial democracy, is a euphemism for socialism and after having read this book, I have reached the conclusion that when Professor Newlon uses the term, democracy, he means the Norman Thomas variety rather than Lenin's interpretation of Karl Marx.

It was quite a refreshing and even encouraging experience to read this volume published in 1939 in 1956. Apparently back in those days, lots of people were scared. The only things that really frightened mankind today are the atom and hydrogen bombs and increasingly the belief is becoming prevalent that no one will ever dare use these machines of total destruction.

The Once Over

Invention of the Hour

An eighteen-gun salute, dancing in the streets and nationwide hat tossing are due Joseph Longstreth and Albert Honour, two authors who have dreamed up and patented something that may symbolize public revolt against the undersized, semi-invisible, wholly useless paper napkins used in thousands of eating places, especially on the open road. Exasperated, nerve-shaken and generally aroused by the struggle with this foremost nuisance, the boys have come through with what seems to be a perfect answer in the form of a paper or plastic glove, covering the thumb and two fingers and particularly designed for consumers of hotdogs, chicken-in-a-basket, lobsters, and "grinders." (It can be thrown away as easily as a paper napkin. But it doesn't leave of its own accord.)

Any invention which really relieves the long suffering public of the exasperating influences of the demi tasse paper napkins will be the invention of the decade and should entitle the inventors to statues in public parks. Never any good, the paper napkin has been reduced in size until today it is the world's foremost destroyer of public patience. As if the size were not annoying enough, the lunchrooms now pack these things so tightly in metal containers that, to get one out, a customer has to have the com-binated talents of a professional wrestler, a magician and an expert in looting slot machines. Countless restaurants use them to save a few pennies per year, ignoring the fact they drive away hundreds of customers. The man who first came up with the idea of the fly-away infinitesimal napkin should go into history as Public Enemy Number One. It is strictly no good and largely responsible for the spread of irascibility among Americans who eat out.

The routine of handling a mid-size paper napkin has its entertaining value. You place it on your knee, count five and find it on the right foot of a customer at the other end of the lunchroom. His own napkin is on his left foot. This gives him complete coverage, provided he eats through his shoes. A typical paper napkin, favored by a light breeze can go from Frank & Joe's Lunch 600 yards to the Acme Inn with the speed of light.

Fairly Spoken By MARGARET LATROBE When Uncle Sam Calls For Income Tax Facts

My number came up. At last—after hoping for a sweepstakes winner, a roulette lucky number, uranium discovery or just ordinary oil—the word finally arrived!

"Your 1953 income tax return is being reviewed," said the letter. "Kindly bring all pertinent records, bank statements and receipts in order that we may determine the amount of tax . . ." It named a day and hour for the happy occasion, slyly adding that if this date weren't convenient we should speak up.

The government ought to figure out some better public relations with the citizenry. There must be some good news they could write, but as of now the only two attention-getters are greetings from the draft board or the one announcing the 1953 files ain't closed on the tax hits.

I'll be honest with you. This piece of news ruined my whole day. My whole week, you might say. All the acid jokes about tax investigations and investigations of citizens brought to the bar of justice hummed like wasps awarning in Springtime. The clank of handcuffs leaped from the TV set, snapping shut upon my trembling wrists.

My gosh, thinks I. What could it be? When I put down the okra casserole under "church benefits" I knew it would bounce back in my lap. Now, with the hour of reckoning at hand, the recipe could not be found and I was cursing it and she who gave it to me. Charity is a fine thing, just so you don't go mixing tax receipts with recipes. I'll be even more honest—this invitation spoiled not only the days but the night's sleep. Smack at awo a. m. I would wake, race for the desk drawer to see if my some off-chance I could even locate the tax return. Much less any tid-bits of evidence to verify the existence of the two offspring listed as dependents. (They were snoozing peacefully enough in their beds, but how to prove it?)

We showed up at the appointed time, which, oddly enough, we found quite convenient. The meeting was—and I am honest—honest—a big disappointment. No fanged ogres waving fines or jail terms. No gimlet-eyed gentleman intent on clapping us in irons.

A kindly, smiling lady greeted us—almost apologetically. If you can believe it—with the news that I had totted up the sums wrong in one column (gee, folks, with my arithmetical background of straight nothing the wonder is that the return even had numbers on it) and had taken a medical expense in a non-medical section. Inadvertently, of course. So we paid Uncle the difference due and that was that!

If and when you get a similar summons in the mail, don't lose any sleep. The tax people are not only courteous, they are downright friendly. So they can add with the speed of light—? So they like things nice and accurate—? So what? It's nothing to worry about. (And about that casserole, you take some onions and okra and tomatoes, and a pound of butter—? The 1954 books are not closed, either, and who knows? They may ask for details!)

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

The editor of a small town paper in Illinois must have had a grudge to settle with his local doctor when he printed this item in his paper (I can't believe it was just a typographical error): "Our trusted doctor arrived as soon as humanly possible after the crash, but as soon as he checked the victim's pulse he declared he could do nothing for her."

Jerry D. Lewis, author of a tip-top collection of poker stories called "Dealer's Choice," reveals that Hoyle "whose name has become a part of our language as a synonym for the Supreme Court of Poker never wrote any book of poker rules; he never played, or even heard of the game!"

Hoyle, it seems, wrote a very successful book on whist, so when the publishers decided to bring out a poker rule manual, they merely appropriated the Hoyle name.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Saudi Arabia Demanding Huge Arms Aid From U. S.

Washington, July 10 — Saudi Arabia is making tough demands in the secret negotiations on the sale of arms to the kingdom, a vital ally of the United States. In exchange for a new five-year lease on this Air Force base, the Arab country, whose fabulously rich oil resources are conceded to Arabian-American Oil Company (ARAMCO), is demanding the following:

Immediate shipment of $100,000,000 of American weapons, including jet planes, tanks and artillery. The State Department quietly approved the sale of these arms months ago, but only a portion of them have been released owing to violent political repercussions in the U. S. Saudi Arabia is insisting that all the weapons be turned over without further delay.

$100,000,000 in military aid to be supplied this Arab country in the next five years; that is, during the duration of the proposed new five-year Dhahran lease.

U. S. military and technical personnel to train Saudi Arabian forces.

Americans of Jewish descent to continue to be banned from missions sent there.

On the possibility that no agreement will be reached, the State Department has begun discussions for the construction of a combined naval and air base in the adjoining tiny Arab kingdom of Qatar.

This base would be at Alazaban, several hundred miles south of Dhahran and, like it, also on the Persian Gulf.

Qatar is a British protectorate around 100 miles in length. The U. S. is seeking a 99-year lease for the proposed new air-naval base. The price for this being asked by Emir Ahmed Ben Ali Thani is $100,000,000 in economic and military aid over a period of years.

Secretary of State Dulles favors coming to terms with Saudi Arabia for renewal of the Dhahran lease.

The necessity of this is being strongly urged by him in private talks with congressional leaders. He is trying to win their support, particularly on the explosive arms issue. Dulles is stressing the crucial importance of the Dhahran base both in the war-periled Middle East and as part of Western defenses on the southern flank of the Iron Curtain empire.

"We regard the situation relating to Saudi Arabia as distinct from that which relates to Israel and the countries having a common border with Israel," Dulles explained to one group of congressional leaders. "The U. S. has not been the purveyor of weapons to either Israel or any of its immediate neighbors. Saudi Arabia has no common borders with Israel. The special working arrangement we have with Saudi Arabia for the use of this airfield was begun by President Roosevelt and continued by President Truman. We are seeking another continuance of this special agreement."

Dulles also indicated there is still a possibility Vice President Nixon may make the trip to the Middle East that was announced last year but dropped after President Eisenhower's heart attack.

Middle East Flashes — Approximately 100 ships, at least 8 of them American, have been blacklisted by the Arabs for carrying goods to Israel. That's what Assistant Secretary of State William Rountree has reported to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He told Committee members, "Vessels blacklisted by the Arabs are allowed to pass through the Suez Canal, but they may not take on water, stores or other supplies, undergo repairs, give their crews shore leave, or take on cargo." . . . The World Bank is sending a mission to Afghanistan for a study in connection with a big loan being sought by this country. Afghanistan is being vigorously wooed by Russia, and is using that factor in proposing a World Bank loan . . . The U. S. has decided not to build a road for Jordan between Amman, the capital, and Aqaba, main port on the Red Sea. Reason for this unannounced action is recent anti-Western political changes in Jordan, which U. S. military authorities consider make it unwise to build this key highway. . . . Part of the military aid going to Libya will be used to train and equip an armored squadron, whose principal purpose will be the protection of Wheelus Airbase at Tripoli, on the Mediterranean. The 17th Airforce is moving there from Rabat, on the Atlantic, in strifetorn Morocco.

New Polio — A new polio-type virus has been discovered. It's been tagged "Echo No. 4," and while it has all the symptoms of paralytic polio, apparently is not crippling.

That's the report of Dr. Theodore Bauer, director of the Communicable Disease Center of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md. He has informed congressional authorities the virus was uncovered last year in a nationwide study of polio cases. The Saik vaccine so far has been found 75 percent effective against this new threat.

The first wave of immigration to the United States was mainly English, along the Atlantic seaboard from 1607 to about 1640.

Cramers Set For Journey To Scotland

By Jim Riley

Clifford Cramer, one of East Stroudsburg's leading citizens, will soon depart for an ocean voyage and thus escape the August heat which usually sweeps over this area.

Cliff and his family are scheduled to depart on Wednesday, August 8 for a voyage to Scotland.

Mrs. Cramer was born in Scotland, but left when she was five years of age. Joan hasn't been back since that time.

The Cramers are residents of 125 Berwick Heights.

Mrs. Edna Koenig, Merchantville, N. J. and Mrs. William Miller, Norfolk, Va., were weekend guests of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Metzgar, Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Miller's husband is stationed aboard the USS Cambera at the present time.

Mrs. Gary Shaffer, former Diane Smith, is currently spending a week with her father, Franklin Smith, in Pocono Lake.

Gary, a native of Stroudsburg, and Diane are now residents of Brooklyn.

St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday School, Tannersville, held its annual picnic at Tobyhanna State Park yesterday.

"Muff" Phillips, of American House fame, riding around with Rod MacLeod, Daily Record photographer Monday night, while the former covered an accident near Bartonsville.

MacLeod was on the job, even though he is officially on vacation.

Les Carlton and George Graff, friends of long standing, had dinner together the other night—just like old time.

Carlton is former Daily Record photographer, now on the list of retired folks.

Dr. William Niering, the gent who is working so hard to preserve the Cranberry Bog, is a native of Scotland.

Bill ends a month's vacation at home and returns to his position as professor at the Connecticut University for Women, New London, Conn., today.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

New York — The funniest woman I ever have met is a handsome, orange-haired one named Virginia. Martin who once turned down an offer of $1,000 "to go out and buy yasself some new clothes, baby" from a hood in the vending-machine business.

To tell that complete story the correct, thorough way would take a week, so I am going to compromise today and tell you about the time Virginia broke into summer-theatre work in Warwick, R. L. playing the part of Dorothy in Gentlemen Prefer Blondes. I got it from Miss M. yesterday in a dark corner of Sardi's, between a stream of lovely, 20-year-old jokes and a birdcall or two. Virginia imitates chickens spectacularly.

"This was theater-in-the-round, under a tent," Virginia said thoughtfully. "And you know how actors have to go down the aisles to get out of the tent. Well, these are a half-dozen exits, known to the performers as the two o'clock flap, the four o'clock flap, etc., depending on their location. In the first act, I had to go out for a quick costume change—and when I rushed back, I couldn't find the right entrance flap. I ran around and around the tent. I fell about three times, and finally I saw a mild little man outside one flap and I yelled excitedly. 'Is this the 12 o'clock flap?' He just murmured, 'I beg your pardon?'"

"I was halfway up the ramp and doing beautifully—when the lights went up." Miss M. sipped her coffee. "Can I add anything particularly to that?" she said.

"I got in, finally," Virginia went on, "and promptly fell over—and knocked sideways—a fake car that was supposed to be pushed down one aisle. However, doggedly, I got back onstage."

"Later, I had to make another quick change and then I met Eric Brotherson, who was acting in it with me, and we sauntered down the aisle singing a duet. It wasn't exactly supposed to be hilarious at that point, but people sure were laughing hard. Finally, when we got on stage I discovered why. A very important flap in my dress was completely undone—my nine o'clock flap, you might say. There was no way for me to fix it—and no way, in a theater in the round, to keep my back to a wall."

In the round, actors get off the stage in the dark, with the edge of the platform painted with phosphorus so they'll know where to step off. "That's a good idea," Virginia said, "except I'm near-sighted—and I couldn't see any phosphorus. So the first time, I edged along in panic—and then decided just to hop boldly off the stage. So I did . . . and landed in the lap of a man sitting in the first row."

Virginia is knocking audiences cold now in New Faces, but the Warwick ordeal, which was last summer, remains violently fresh in her mind. "I think my third-act entrance was the most chilling," she recalled reflectively. "We had to be onstage when the lights went up, so I felt my way down the aisle—and then couldn't see that darned phosphorus ring again. So, in terror, I got down on all fours and crept around . . . until finally I felt the ramp, and, with a sigh of relief, started to crawl up it like a dog."

Auto Injuries Fatal To Bachman

ALBERT E. BACHMAN, 30, of 43 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, died at 8 a.m. yesterday in General Hospital.

He was fatally injured early Monday morning when his car went off Route 611 on Foxtown Hill and hit a tree near Delaware Water Gap. He was pinned inside the wreckage for half an hour.

At the time of his death he was employed as a bartender at Penn Hills Lodge. He had been one of Stroudsburg's all-around athletes during his high school career.

A lifelong resident of this area, he was the son of Frank Bachman and the late Esther Bachman. He was a member of Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Veteran

Mr. Bachman was a veteran of World War Two. During his three and one-half years of service in the U. S. Navy he served on several ships. His longest term of service was as a gunner on board the Navy tanker "Kennesaw Mountain" in the South Pacific.

His reputation as an athlete was founded on a three-year career as a quarterback with the Stroudsburg High School football team. He also played basketball and baseball in high school.

After graduation—in the late 1940s—he played quarterback on the Pocono Athletic Club team and the same position with the Roseto Redskins. He played baseball with the Ansonia and Redders teams in the Pocono Mountain League. He also played area basketball.

He was a member of Eagles Lodge, Stroudsburg, and Thomas P. Lambert Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Stroudsburg.

Besides his father, Mr. Bachman is survived by his stepmother, Mrs. Grace Bachman; his brother, Charles, of Paterson, N. J.; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Bachman, East Stroudsburg; maternal grandfather, Mrs. Martha Beaver, also of East Stroudsburg; a niece and a nephew.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at Daniel G. Warner funeral home, Rev. Harold C. Eaton will officiate.

Interment will be made in Stroudsburg Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday after 7 p.m. at the funeral home.

WVPO Off Short Time

RADIO STATION WVPO was off the air for about 15 minutes last night due to technical difficulties.

Ernest R. Transue, chief engineer, said the trouble was in the interlocking system at the transmitter.

The station was silent from 6:50 to 7:05 p.m., he said.

MORA Club Meets Today

MORA CLUB will meet at 2 this afternoon at the YMCA. A feature of the program will be a talk by Eugene T. Lake on "How a Submarine Works." Lake has made an extensive study of this subject.

It is anticipated that there will also be some talk of a picnic and the matter of instituting a Women's Auxiliary.

Lions Learn Of Large Membership

STROUDSBURG Lions learned last night their organization is composed of 12,450 clubs—360 more than its nearest rival, Rotary International.

The report was made by Harold L. Miller, local president, who reported on the recent Lions International convention in Miami, which he attended as representative for this area.

Last night's dinner meeting was held at the Delaware Water Gap Fire House. The roast beef dinner was served by the men and women of the Presbyterian Church of the Mountain, and proceeds will be devoted to the junior work of the church.

Miller further reported that, in the last year, 20,000 new members were added to the organization's rolls. Moreover, the work was carried into six new regions or countries.

First Prize

The club president also disclosed that the Keystone State won first prize for floats at the Miami convention, and Wilson Borough Band won an honorable rating in the junior band competition.

Most distinguished honor for the area was the election of Conrad Favello, a Hazleton attorney, as Lions International director. It is from this group that international presidents are chosen. A frequent visitor here, Favello was formerly a district governor.

A warm welcome was given last night to Walter Von Brook, one of the two surviving charter members, who displayed data relative to the proposed Edison Park, to which he has devoted much time and effort.

The president announced that a joint meeting of the board of directors and heads of all committees will be held following the July 24 meeting. The location will be announced.

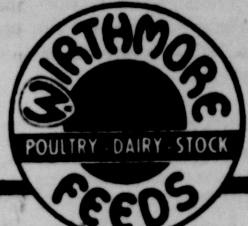

Stroud Union Board To Meet

STROUD UNION School Board meets tonight at 8 in regular session.

Meeting will be held in Stroudsburg High School, Room 8. Loring Cramer, board president, will be in charge.

be practical for me—too much hopping on and off too often. Besides, the temperature was just right for walking.

Probably a good idea that everybody was full of energy yesterday, too, because they certainly are working up some fancy plans for Shawnee Women's Golf Association carnival the first Saturday in August. Dime-a-dance hostesses, special decorations and their very best bibs and tuckers, among other things.

Next time you are serving a meatless tomato sauce over spaghetti, try adding anchovies to it. Use a small can (about two ounces) of the anchovies that come packed flat for a tomato sauce that is to serve four people. Cut the anchovies into small pieces before adding. The oil from the anchovy can may be used in preparing the sauce.

Antique Show Advanced By Hospital Aux.

Plans for the 12th Annual Antique Show, sponsored by the Auxiliary of the General Hospital, were advanced at the meeting held yesterday at the summer home of Mrs. Fred W. Davis, Cherry Lane. The show will this year be held July 31 to August 3 in the East Stroudsburg High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Gilbert Barthold, director, announced that only a few booths remained open, and that the response of advertisers and patrons for the program had been excellent.

Mrs. William W. Gorman, general program chairman, announced the names of her committees: advertising, Mrs. George Ott, Mrs. George Marsh, Mrs. Hazel Albert, Mrs. Victor Taylor, Mrs. Rudolph Chiappa, Mrs. Kathryn Lambert, Mrs. Nathan Meyers, Mrs. Montgomery Crowe and Mrs. Barthold; posters, Mrs. Ott, Mrs. Henry Hefele, Mrs. I. B. Kiffin, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Albert, Mrs. Charles Frank, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Chiappa, Mrs. Lambert, Mrs. George Hauser, Mrs. Harry Kresge, Mrs. Albert and Mrs. Barthold.

Mrs. George Hauser, chairman of the cafeteria which will be run in conjunction with the show, announced that her committee had met and that the menus had been planned.

The meeting followed a covered dish luncheon at the Davis home, which was very well attended. A report on the hospitality shop at the hospital was given by Mrs. Barthold, manager, who announced that it had been very busy this summer. The auxiliary voted to buy an adding machine for use in the shop.

Following the meeting, cards were played on the porch. Mrs. J. E. Rushmore assisted Mrs. Davis in serving.

Paul Koerner Engaged To Miss Di Misa

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Evans, of 5302 Clark Place S. E., Washington, D. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, M. Virginia Di Misa, to Paul Edwin Koerner, son of Mrs. George A. Koerner, of Cresco.

Miss Di Misa is a graduate of Sulland High School and is at home with her parents.

Mr. Koerner is a graduate of Barrett High School and is employed by the department of the Air Corps as a tabulation project planner.

They plan to be married in Washington on September 8, and will reside in nearby Virginia.

For Music Appreciation

Girl Scouts of Monroe County will have an opportunity to work on their music appreciation badge this summer. Numa Snyder, director of music at Stroud Area High School, will assist in their preparation. Interested Scouts are asked to call or register at the Girl Scout House as soon as possible.

Mrs. James G. Dietrich (Lens Art)

Janet Kibler Is Bride Of J. G. Dietrich

Wind Gap — The marriage of Miss Janet Mae Kibler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kibler, Roosevelt St., Wind Gap, to James G. Dietrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dietrich, of 121 E. Pennsylvania Ave., Pen Argyl, took place on Saturday afternoon in the Trinity Lutheran Church, Wind Gap.

Rev. Luther B. Klick officiated. The bride, given in marriage by her father had Miss Joan Case, Pen Argyl, as maid-of-honor, and Miss Mary Pezzuto, Pen Argyl, and Miss Jacqueline Fenner, Wind Gap, as bridesmaids.

James Eden of Dunkirk, N. Y., was best man. Samuel Brumbaugh, Pen Argyl, and James Sylvester, Ardmore, served as ushers.

The bride wore a dress of Chantilly lace over satin with a high neckline with a little lace collar and long sleeves. The bouffant skirt had a lace panel in front and insets of nylon tulle knife pleating on both sides, with a ruffled cascade of lace tiers in back, ending in a chapel train. She carried a white Bible with white orchids and streamers.

Her attendants wore full-length gowns of coral crystalite with matching net headpieces and carried bouquets of white daisies.

Mrs. Freeman Bethman was organist and Mr. Bethman soloist.

Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich left on a wedding trip to Wildwood, N. J., following a reception in the church social rooms. They will reside at the bride's home.

The bride is a graduate of Pen Argyl High School and is employed by Bangor Mills, Inc., Pen Argyl. Her husband, a graduate of Pen Argyl High School and Admiral Farragut Academy, Pine Beach, N. J., will be graduated from General Motors Institute, Flint, Mich., next month.

A wire rack with feet that hold it up from the table is recommended for cooling cakes and cookies because it allows the air to circulate under the baked products and keeps them from becoming soggy.

Certainly, Kathy has a most remarkable mother. When the young zoo fancier decided the Pocono Wild Animal Farm was to be her next port of call, Mrs. Allen fell in with the plan. If her love for zoos is not as wholehearted as Kathy's, no one would ever guess. Mrs. Allen procured plane tickets from Parkersburg to Scranton, and his tickets from Scranton to Stroudsburg. Ever since arriving here and registering at the Penn-Stroud Hotel they have visited the Farm every day. Sometimes they walked. But weather or no, they went, and made a big event of it.

Kathy has two pets at home—a dog of mixed heritage, that wears a shiny brown, black and white coat, and answers to the name of Trigger, thanks to the combined influences of Roy Rogers and television; and a duck named Flapsie. These, and an 11-year-old cousin named Kitty, are Kathy's favorite playmates, and enter often into her conversation.

A friendly little girl with reddish blond hair, and big blue-gray eyes that sparkle behind glasses, Kathy was a very composed, pleasant guest on our Wyckoff broadcast of Monday morning. It had been feared that she'd be too shy to talk. But she wasn't. She was remarkably poised, despite the uncomfortable fact that she had to sit atop two thick dictionaries to reach the mike.

While the youngster bubbled over with enthusiasm about Dr. Leister's Farm and the animals, Mrs. Allen waxed enthusiastic about our store. "It's a wonderful place," she said, "and I visited it right after we arrived. When we reached Scranton, I realized that our clothing wasn't adequate for the weather you were having here, so we bought heavier things at Wyckoff's."

After the broadcast, Kathy and her mother returned to Wyckoff's, and the little girl was invited to select a book from our selves, in appreciation of her interview. Kathy looked them over carefully, assisted by Florence Predmore, our department head. She made a wise selection too—a beautiful Golden Book, (About Natural History.)

Congregation Plans Supper For New Pastor

Mount Pocono — The Methodist Church of Mount Pocono is planning to hold a welcome supper on Wednesday night in honor of their new pastor, Rev. William Harner and family.

The supper is scheduled for 5:30 p.m., this Wednesday and members and friends are all invited. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish.

Advertise in The Daily Record.

In the spring of last year, a rural mailman innocently enough left a copy of Junior Natural History Magazine at a home near Parkersburg, West Virginia. It was addressed to seven year old Kathy Allen, and that might have been the end of the story had the publication not contained an article about the Pocono Wild Animal Farm near Stroudsburg, Pa. Mrs. Anna Allen, leaving through the magazine before her daughter returned from school, had an inkling of what would follow. Knowing persuasive Kathy as she did, she had a very strong feeling that now was the time she'd better start saving for a summer vacation. Kathy and she would undoubtedly be headed, in due time, for the Pocono Mountains and daily visits with llamas, kangaroos, monkeys, bison, macaws, and sundry other animals and birds.

Last year, Mrs. Allen explains with a smile, it was the Cincinnati Zoo that attracted her daughter. "We spent a week there," the attractive young mother explains, "and I mean SEVEN DAYS—all at the zoo, from morning until night."

Kathy beams happily at the memory, and nods her head vigorously when you ask if she enjoyed it. "Oh yes," she says. "But I like the Farm here very much too." Proudly she points to her cute upturned, sun-reddened, nose. "See how I skinned it?" she asks. "I climbed on a donkey and he bucked." Another donkey at the Wild Animal Farm earned Kathy's wholehearted solicitude when it was explained to her that a baby donkey is on the way. As self-appointed guardian of the mother-to-be, the child spent most of last Sunday leading the donkey around, protecting her from other children who, unaware of the situation, were inconsiderate, to Kathy's way of thinking.

"I encourage her love for animals," Mrs. Allen says in her quiet, gentle way, "because I feel that tenderness is one thing we could certainly use a great deal more of in this day and age."

Alfred Ravelli

Mountainhome Teacher To Work In Afghanistan School

By Ruth W. Ottaway

ONE OF THE MOST effective ways to win men's minds in this cold war is to help educate them, in all fields of theoretical and practical knowledge.

One of our ambassadors in this field is to be Alfred Ravelli, of Mountainhome, who is leaving for more than a year's stay in Afghanistan. As a specialist in secondary and science education, he will work with a team of men in the school systems in that country.

Ravelli and his family are flying Friday from International Airport. His wife, Helen, and daughters, Kathie Ann, 13, and Janice Lynn, 11, will be with him for the entire trip.

Their first stop of any length will be in Amsterdam where they will be for about 24 hours. From there they will fly to Karachi, Pakistan, where they will have another day's stop. The third leg of the flight will take them to Kabul, Afghanistan, where they will make their permanent home for the year and a half they will be there.

Duties

Ravelli's duties on this mission are many and varied. He will be one of six specialists and six instructors on the team from Columbia University where he received his education degree this June. The group is financed by the International Cooperation Administration, a federal agency under the State Department, which is administered through the Teachers' College at Columbia. The college distributes the grants to the various teams. Another team to go recently was one on agriculture from Wyoming.

Ravelli will work at the University of Kabul in its Student Teaching Program. There he will instruct in the methods of teaching science.

He will also be working with the director of a Junior High School (more like our normal schools) assisting in the program of the school, and developing resource materials. The young people at this school, Ebe-e-Seens, have all chosen education for their careers and will be studying to go into teaching.

In addition to these tasks, Ravelli will be holding weekly workshops for science teachers. He will also write a science text for the eighth and ninth grades there.

Unlike our system, the long vacation comes in the middle of the winter, between November and January. This is because of the heating problem in a country where the winters are very cold. In contrast, however, the summers are very hot and classes are held then only in the mornings.

During the winter vacation, Ravelli hopes to do some traveling, both in India and South Afghanistan, where he will also hold workshops. He said he would like to tour a bit at the beginning of their stay to become more acquainted with the people and their ways.

Harold Winters

Winters In Training At Wyoming

A/SC Harold J. Winters, son of Mrs. Mary M. Winters, of 36 Stoffer St., Stroudsburg, Pa., is presently being trained as a teletype operator specialist at Francis E. Warren Air Force Base, Wyoming.

At this historic former Cavalry Post, outside Cheyenne, the Air Force is training airmen in many specialties.

Training

At Warren, officers and airmen are trained to become automotive, utilities, and telephone and teletype operators, as well as repairmen, inspectors, instructors, and supervisors, administrative and supply technicians.

for 10 years, between 1914 and 1954, where he instructed in all sciences from the seventh to 12th grades. Since then, he has been on a sabbatical and working for his doctorate at Columbia. While in New York he also worked at the Teachers' College there as department coordinator of student teaching; and he was audio-visual coordinator for a private school in New York.

Others of Ravelli's activities in the area have included supervision of the Barrett Playground from 1950-1955. He is a past president of Rotary and has taught part time at the State Teachers College in East Stroudsburg.

On their return trip the Ravellis hope to tour Europe.

Pocono Joint Board To Meet

REGULAR monthly meeting of the Pocono Mountain Joint School Board will be held tonight at 8 in Jackson Township School at Readers.

The jointure went into effect legally on Monday, July 2. Its first official meeting was held at Mount Pocono School.

President

At that meeting Harry J. Drennan was named president of the joint board. Drennan is a member from Barrett. He had served during recent months—during the jointure's formative period—as chairman of the interim steering committee of the jointure.

Kunkletown Civil Defense Women Take Part In Regular Welfare Course Class At Firehouse

KUNKLETOWN—A meeting of the Kunkletown Civil Defense women was held Monday night at the new firehouse, where a regularly scheduled welfare course class was conducted.

The course, one of the current series being held over the entire county, is designed to prepare personnel to handle mass care centers during emergencies. Instructors for the Kunkletown course are Mrs. Frances Ransberger and Mrs. Mary Henning. Also in attendance were Herman Barlieb, C-D director for Eldred Township; Judge Fred W. Davis, county C-D director; and Paul M. Crown, executive director for the county.

Judge Davis paid tribute to the women and two men of Eldred Township who generously helped in supplying food, clothing and personnel during last August's flood emergency.

The jurist pointed out the necessity for efficient training for unexpected disasters. He noted that a well-trained nucleus of Civil Defense workers were able to save many lives and care for victims last August.

Present for the course were Georgia Albertson, Mazie Baillet, Verna V. Barlieb, Mary M. Berger, Pearl Berger, Mabel Christman, Minnie Christman, Ruby M. Frantz, Mabel M. Gower, Rilla Gower, Hattie Hawk, Evelyn Haydt, Erma M. Kleintop, Miriam Lobach, Helen A. Nicholas, Sula Peters, Alma Smale, Helen Smith, Jennie M. Smith, Alma M. Ziegenfuss and Bertha Ziegenfuss.

Board Members To Hold Meeting

OFFICIAL board members of Mt. Zion Methodist Church will hold their monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 in the church. Rev. Justin Feltham will preside. The congregation is invited to attend.

The social committee, consisting of Mrs. Herbert Haney, chairman; Mrs. Earl Lee Sr. and Mrs. Earl Sandt, will discuss plans for the strawberry festival to be held Saturday, July 21, from 5 to 8 p.m., on the church grounds.

Pen Argyl Playground Holds Events

PEN ARGYL—Pen Argyl Recreation program held a doll and model contest at Weona Park on Monday morning.

It was originally scheduled for last Friday. Mrs. Walter Dietz, Mrs. Christy Snyder and Mrs. Garfield Oliver, members of the Lookout Fire Co. Auxiliary were judges.

Winners

Winners in the doll contest were as follows: Mary White, Janice Obrecht, Nancy Edwards, Lorraine Crouch and Georgia Branch. Winners in the model contest that consisted of airplanes, ships etc., were Thomas Brown, Edward

Sunday School Makes Plans

BARTONSVILLE—Sunday school sessions will be held outdoors at St. John's Lutheran Sunday School July 15, weather permitting. Classes will start at 10 a.m. At the close of Sunday School sessions a picnic will be held on the church lawn. In the event of rain the picnic lunch will be served in the parish house.

Redleg-Packed Nationals Overpower Americans 7-3

Bob Friend Gets Mound Win; Four Homers Hit In Classic

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The Cincinnati-packed National League team made its critics eat crow today with help from Stan Musial and Willie Mays to upset the Americans 7-3 despite home runs by Ted Williams and Mickey Mantle.

Cincinnati, with five starters and eight squad members, chipped in with six of the 11 hits off six American League pitchers. A Redlegs' infield combination reeled off the only double play of the 23rd All-Star baseball game and also contributed the only stolen base by second baseman Johnny Temple.

The sellout crowd of 28,843 that paid a gross gate of $105,982.50 didn't have much to cheer about from its American League favorites until Williams unloaded a tremendous home run into the home bullpen in right center with Nellie Fox of Chicago on base in the sixth.

Becomes Alive

When Mantle, injured New York Yankee slugger who was playing with a brace on his right knee, slammed another homer off Milwaukee's Warren Spahn the crowd really became alive.

But it didn't last long. The Nationals lashed back to nail down their 10th victory and sixth in the last seven years with another two-run burst against Boston's Tom Brewer in the seventh.

Musial, whose All-Star homer record had just been tied by Williams' fourth, hung up a new mark by driving his fifth into the bleacher seats in left center. The Nationals' final run came when Willie Mays of New York walked and sped home on a hit-and-run double by Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati.

Although the Americans got to the three National pitchers for 11 hits, they never were able to bunch them until the sixth inning outburst.

Friend Winner

Bob Friend, the starter from Pittsburgh, had a lead when he gave way to Spahn. Although Spahn was knocked out by Mantle's clout, he still held a lead when New York's Johnny Antonelli took over to shut out the Americans the rest of the way. Friend thus was the winner in his first All-Star appearance.

Under the rules of an All-Star game, no pitcher can go more than three innings unless it's an overtime struggle. However, a pitcher who enters the game after the start of an inning does not have that frame charged against him. Antonelli replaced Spahn with none out in the sixth and actually worked four innings.

Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox, turned in a fine three-inning stint, but was losing 1-0 when he left and was charged with the defeat. Jimmy Ford of New York, Jim Wilson of Chicago, Brewer, and Herb Score and Early Wynn of Cleveland never could catch up.

Ken Boyer, stylish St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, emerged from his first All-Star test with glowing honors. In addition to three singles, he contributed two sparkling defensive plays.

The American League pitchers finished with a total of 12 strikeouts. The Nationals got Mantle three times on strikes, Williams once and pinch-hitter Harry Simpson of Kansas City once.

Yogi Berra, Yankee catcher, left the game in the sixth after he was nicked by a foul off the bat of Ted Kluszewski. Berra finished the half inning but was lifted for a pinch hitter in the American sixth. X-rays probably will be taken tomorrow but Berra said it wasn't a serious injury.

Not Injured

Musial said he was not injured when clipped high on the thigh by Boyer as both ran after Williams' fly in the eighth.

After two scoreless innings, the National took charge with a run off Pierce, in the third on a walk to McMillan, Bob Friend's sacrifice and Temple's single to center. They never let up, slashing away at a parade of American Leaguers from the bullpen in right center.

Boyer's single sent Detroit's Harvey Kuenn at short, followed by Mays' 400-foot pinch homer into the bleachers in left center off New York's Whitey Ford opened up a 3-0 lead in the fourth.

Yields Run

Jim Wilson of the White Sox yielded a run in the fifth on Temple's bunt single and infield out and Boyer's third straight single into short center. A wild pitch by Tom Brewer let in another National score in the sixth while the Boston right-hander was pitching to Spahn after Kluszewski's pinch double and McMillan's second single.

Shortly after Williams and Mantle brought the game back into focus in the sixth, the National broke loose again in the seventh against Brewer on Musial's record-breaking fifth homer, a walk to Mays and Kluszewski's second hit-and-run double.

National Leaguers Chortle, 'Great To Be In Right Loop'

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—It's great to be in the right league," chortled otherwise-rival National League baseball players today after they had banded together to beat the American League All-Stars 7-3.

Walt Alston, the Brooklyn Dodger manager who directed the Nationals, grinned with pleasure, but took it all rather calm and collected. He was not inclined to gloat and declined to make any comment on his rivals, saying "It's enough to manage one ball club."

"We had the hitting, particularly in the clutch," was his summary of the key factors in the triumph. "That pinch-hit homer by Willie Mays with one on in the fourth gave us a big start and then we got good pitching from everybody."

Willie's homer made it 3-0 and Alston said from then on he could afford to stress defensive play which was highlighted by the performances of third baseman Ken Boyer, St. Louis, and second baseman Johnny Temple of Cincinnati.

Alston was reluctant to single out the best player on his side, but finally gave the nod to Boyer who got three hits and made two sensational fielding plays.

"He can run, hit and field. I don't know what else he could do," Alston said.

Alston went individually to eight players he didn't use and apologized for keeping them on the bench.

Alston's opposite number, Casey Stengel, was asked if it was a jinx which made him lose his fifth All-Star game in six tries.

Rock Ailment Is Diagnosed Ruptured Disc

BROCKTON, Mass., July 10 (AP)—Rocky Marciano, retired heavyweight boxing champion, hospitalized Friday when he felt pain in his back while playing with his 3-year-old daughter, suffered a ruptured disc in the lower part of his back, his physician said today.

Dr. Nathaniel Gould said Marciano will remain in Brockton Hospital for at least "two or three more weeks" to undergo "conservative treatment" for the injury.

May Operate
Dr. Gould said if the ruptured disc does not respond to such treatment within that period, surgery "will have to be considered."

Initial treatment will consist of "routine physical therapy," including bed rest, heat treatments and massage, the doctor said.

Marciano is suffering only slight pain while in bed. When he rises the injury causes pain in his back and right leg.

Seixas Comes On Late To Post Victory

INDIANAPOLIS, July 10 (AP)—Top-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia ran into early trouble with 18-year-old Maxwell Brown of Louisville, Ky., in the Western tennis championships today but got his big game going for a 6-3, 6-2 victory.

Brown had Seixas down 3-1, but Vic then took a love game and stormed on through the set. Brown won the first game of the second set, but Seixas took the next four.

Seixas and his partner, Allen Morris of Atlanta, drew a first-round bye in doubles.

Bernard Barten of San Angelo, Tex., defending champion and second seeded, disposed of Jack Frost of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1. Third-ranked Ed Moylan of Trenton, N. J., beat Clyde Akard of Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-4.

Fish Pitches R. C. Cramer To 5-0 LL Win

NORM FISH pitched R. C. Cramer to its first win of the second half East Stroudsburg Little League season as the Lumberman blanked National Bank 5-0 last night.

Cramer's, the circuit's first half champs, hung the first setback on the Bankers as Fish twirled a two-hitter.

Strunk and Townsend led the Cramer offense, getting three hits each, including a double apiece.

Today's Game
Cramer's will take on Methodist Church in a league game today at Little League Park. Game time is 6:30 p. m.

Valdes May Retire From Ring If He Can't Defeat Machen

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., July 10 (AP)—Nino Valdes, the big Cuban heavyweight, says he may retire from boxing if he can't take the measure of young Eddie Machen when the two meet tomorrow night at Miami Beach Auditorium in a nationally televised bout.

Beagle Club Plans Picnic On July 29

THE MONROE Beagle Club, together with the Ladies' Auxiliary of the club, completed plans Monday for the annual picnic which will be held at the clubhouse, Maple-in-Pines, Stroudsburg, on Sunday, July 29, rain or shine.

Members were told to note the change in the picnic date which was originally scheduled for July 22 and also to note that this year's event will feature a covered dish luncheon rather than the basket type picnic held in past years.

Elwood Meyers, Easton, presided at the regular meeting of the club and appointed George Brands, Delaware Water Gap, chairman of the men's picnic committee. He will be assisted by William Dildine and John B. Durkee, Stroudsburg; and also by Meyers.

Activities planned by Brands and his committee include trap shooting, archery and a fly-casting contest. Pictures of all events will be taken by William Dildine.

In the absence of Mrs. Viola Bradford, Stroudsburg, president, the Ladies' Auxiliary meeting was in charge of Mrs. Helen Moyer, Stroudsburg, vice-president.

The following committees were announced: general chairman, Mrs. Bradford, assisted by Meda Daurbert, Walnutport; Francis Dildine and Helen Moyer, Stroudsburg; Catherine Brands, Delaware Water Gap.

Kitchen committee chairman, Margaret Smickley, Wind Gap, assisted by Marion Meyers, Easton; Ada Uliano, Pen Argyl; and Jane Martin, Stroudsburg. Publicity will be handled by Catherine Brands and Dorothy Durkee, Stroudsburg. The Auxiliary picnic plans in-

Without doubt the 205-pound Lat-in needs a good victory to bolster up his sagging career. Once a top heavyweight contender, he has lost four of his last six matches.

Machen, 24, of Redding, Calif., is undefeated in 14 professional starts in which he got 11 knock-outs. One victim was Valdes, whom Machen outpointed in their first meeting at San Francisco in April.

Valdes claims he got a bad decision in that fight.

The California fighter, about 195, is now ranked 10th among heavy weight contenders. This fight may be as important to him as it will be for Valdes, for a win undoubtedly improves his ranking.

Promoter Chris Dundee says he and Willie Pastrang, Managers will try to match the winner with the victor of a July 18 fight at Chicago between John Holman for Machen and Valdes said that would be all right with them.

Bobby Gleason, Valdes' manager, agreed that the Cuban ought to retire if he fails to put Machen away.

"He's got to knock him out to stay in the heavyweight picture. A close decision won't help him much. If he looks bad I'm going to tell him to quit."

The 10-round bout is scheduled to start at 9 p.m. (EST) and will be televised by ABC.

Sportsmen Seek Special Hunt Season

HARRISBURG, July 10 (AP)—A group of forest experts told the Pennsylvania Game Commission today the state's forests face serious damage from the deer herd unless a special doe hunting season is called to cut the herd.

"The problem of deer herd destruction to our forests is the most serious situation we have," said Arthur L. Bennett, Johnsonburg, woodlands manager of the Armstrong Forest Co.

Special Season

Bennett, R. C. White, Deputy Secretary of Forests and Waters, and E. H. Bacon, Warren, Supervisor of Allegheny National Forest, all urged the Commission to establish a special antlerless deer hunting season again this year.

The Commission heard the group and representatives of some 20 sportsmen and conservation organizations prior to its annual two-day closed session to decide hunting season dates and bag limits for the 1956 season.

He Missed One

WILKES - BARRE — Wilkes College's new assistant soccer coach, Jim Ferris, won 11 letters during his four years at Wilkes, competing in soccer, basketball and baseball.

Behrens Cops Low Gross In Women's Golf

MRS. HERBERT Behrens of Easton took top honors in the match play tournament of the Shawnee Women's Golf Association yesterday on the Shawnee Country Club course.

Mrs. Behrens captured low gross with a 90.

Mrs. Lawrence Ross of Stroudsburg won the Class A laurels with a three-down to par score. Mrs. Frank Patterson of Shawnee was the "B" titlist with six down to par. Mrs. George Robinson of Stroudsburg captured low putting laurels with 32.

Guests in the tournament were Mrs. Edward Quinn, Mrs. Len Reid, Mrs. Bobby Westbrook, Mrs. Samuel Bennett, Mrs. Godfrey Stamm and Miss Dixie Waring.

Bohenko To Monmouth

OCEANPORT, N. J. — Jockey Paul Bohenko will come to Monmouth Park Wednesday, July 4, to ride Catalina Farm's Beauguerre in the Tyro Stakes. After that engagement Bohenko returns to New England where he has been going in good form.

Viewing the Screens

AN AMERICAN TOURIST witnesses a murder in a London hospital where she has taken an ill companion in "White Corridors" tonight on Chs. 6 and 7. Linda Darnell, John Bentley and Scott Forbes star in this Screen Directors' Playhouse presentation at 9 p. m.

At 10:30, The Science Fiction Theater is playing "Barrier of Silence" with Adolphe Menjou, Warren Stevens and Phyllis Coates, as a scientist breaks a case of amnesia to safeguard top atomic secrets. Watch for this on Ch. 11.

June Sets Job Record

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The government reported today that more Americans held jobs in June—65,503,000 of them—than ever before.

Only three times in the past has the national employment figure gone past 65 million—last August, when the previous record was set with 65,448,000; last October, with 65,161,000; and May of this year, with 65,238,000.

Today's report, by the Commerce and Labor departments, carried through June 16. It did not reflect the results of the steel strike which began June 30.

The departments said that while the number of jobs was going up, unemployment increased by 300,000 in June to 2,960,000. They said both gains, in employment and unemployment, were largely due to students and graduates joining the labor force.

"Christopher Bean," a warm and tender comedy-drama of a woman who befriended a dying panther who broke a case of amnesia to safeguard top atomic secrets. Watch for this on Ch. 11.

Paul Muni (of Inherit the Wind fame), Sir Cedric and Anna Lee will play in "Commandos Strike at Dawn" in The Late Show at 11:15 on Ch. 2.

Sports

A ten-round bout will be telecast at 10 between unbeaten Eddie Machen and Nino Valdes on Chs. 6 and 7.

No baseball on the screens tonight.

Current Movies

"Cockshell Heroes" is playing at the Sherman with Jose Ferrer; "The Animal World" at the Grand. Both tonight and tomorrow.

"The Seven Year Itch" is at the Blue Ridge Drive-In. "Never Say Goodbye" plays at the Pocono Drive-In with Rock Hudson for two days.

COLONEL ROBERT C. ANGSTER, Commanding Officer, Tobyhanna Signal Depot, welcomes officers and men of the 332nd Reserve Signal Depot (Base) Co. from South Hill, Va. The 332nd will be based at Tobyhanna until July 22 where they will receive training in depot operations. The unit is commanded by Lt. Colonel Samuel E. Hubbard, of South Hill, Virginia.

Two Persons Treated At Dispensary

TWO PERSONS were treated at the dispensary of the General Hospital in East Stroudsburg Monday. Ten-year-old Arthur Brown, of Queens, N. Y., and vacationing nearby, fell down a fire escape. He hit his head causing a laceration of the scalp.

Lesley W. Hay, of Canadensis, was treated for a small piece of steel, which evidently flew off a hammer, and embedded itself in his arm.

Lancaster Cattle

LANCASTER, July 10 (AP)—Cattle 30, medium stock steers 13.25-16.00; calves 100, good and choice vealers 22.00-25.00; hogs 125, bulk of sales 17.50-18.00; sheep 50, no price trend.

Sabatino Resigns Council Post

ROSETO—Leonard J. Romano has been elected to succeed Anthony M. Sabatino as president of the borough council.

Sabatino resigned as president and a member of council Monday night because of health and "personal reasons." He did not elaborate.

Replacement

Fred Ronco, 610 Garibaldi Ave., was appointed by council to fill Sabatino's unexpired term. Ronco was sworn in by Chief Burgess Ernest A. Cascioli.

Sabatino, a Democrat, was elected to council in 1954 and was named president last January. Several years ago, he served as a borough constable.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The cash position of the Treasury July 5: Balance $5,918,706,977.82; Deposits $658,903,210.21; Withdrawals $1,232,989,556.62; Total Debt $273,200,643,485.55; Gold assets $21,824,454,482.07. X—Includes $462,663,874.55 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Final Action Tabled By School Board

ROSETO—Final action on a 1956-57 school budget has again been tabled by the borough school board because the estimated income is lower than the budget appropriations.

Although estimated income from taxes has been pegged at $52,540, the school board has prepared a budget calling for expenditures totaling $66,500.

The board is awaiting further information from its solicitor, Edmund Turtzo, and the State Department of Education before giving final approval to the proposed budget.

Officials

State officials have pointed out that the assessed valuation of property in the borough is only 21 per cent of the market value. Assessments in the borough total $454,000.

Efforts will be made to speed collection of 1951, 1952 and 1953 delinquent taxes.

Crossed eyes are most easily treated and corrected in infancy and childhood, experts say.

Crusaders To Hold Outing

BARTONSVILLE—The Junior Crusaders, sponsored by the Crusader Class of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School, will hold their July meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m., instead of the usual meeting date.

Doggie Roast

A hot dog roast will be held with their children.

Aid For Judith Blutman

JUDITH D. BLUTMAN, 115 N. Sixth St., Stroudsburg, has been awarded a $500 yearly scholarship to Cornell University in Ithaca, N. Y.

Miss Blutman was salutatorian of the June Stroudsburg High School class this year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray L. Blutman.

According to the family, the scholarship award stipulated also that Miss Blutman would be eligible to compete for full-tuition scholarship following completion of her freshman year at Cornell.

*It's only July—
so why miss the fun?
(It's a great time to buy a Buick!)*

IN ALL TRUTH—when would be a better time to buy your new Buick than right now?

When else could you drive home a better bargain—with your present car now worth more than it ever will be again—and while Buick prices are within easier reach of more people than ever before?

And when else will there be better weather—more hours in the day—more places to go—more sports in season?

So you get the most good, and the most car right now in a new Buick...

Because the new Buick you boss today is far and away the best Buick yet...

Because it's styled to the minute—rides like a dream—has all the boundless power of a big 322-cubic-inch V8 engine that revels in running...

And above all, because it has Variable Pitch Dynaflo® to perform its pace-making magic with a smoothness matched nowhere else on wheels.

So why waste time?

Come see what wonderful sense it makes to buy in July—and what a whale of a deal we can make you right now.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick® builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.
